PREMIER DALADIER FLATLY ASSERTS NO LAND BE GIVEN UP DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST ITALY IN TUNIS AND CORSICA RESULT DEMAND

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Premier Daladier flatly asserted today that France had no intention of giving up any part of her territory, personally answering Italian clamor for French Corsica and Tunisia.

Daladier, in a communique, announced his intention of visiting the two regions shortly after the first of the year.

He urged inhabitants, who have been demonstrating riotously against the Italian campaign, to remain calm.

"There is no need to state that these manifestations (in Italy) will meet strong opposition against the cession of any territory over which the national flag floats," the premier declared.

His statement was regarded as doubly significant in view of preparations here to receive Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, who is coming to Paris tomorrow to sign a French-German no-war accord.

BAPTISTS OBSERVE 7TH ANNIVERSARY PRESENT PASTOR

Yesterday was a great day in the ranks of the people of the First Baptist church when a great host of them gathered at the services throughout the day. There were 704 in Sunday School and a large crowd at the morning service to hear Dr. J. M. Dawson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Waco, who spoke on "The Christian Life." The choir sang, "God So Loved the World," by Stanley Horton. Ceremonies for the morning service and spoke ably and aptly of the work done by Rev. Miller during the past seven years. The burning service to take place after the evening service and then introduced the speaker of the morning.

The evening service was preceded by the B. T. U. in which there was the record attendance of 260. Miss Vera Bottoms, B. T. U. director, presented an opening program in honor of the pastor and family.

Dr. J. Howard Williams, of Amarillo, former pastor of the church, spoke at the evening service. He spoke of "The Love of God." Dr. and Mrs. Williams, friends of the church, were greeted by a host of old members. Joe Jefferson, chairman of the board of deacons, two presented themselves for church membership at the close of the service.

The closing of the service, Hon. Tom L. Tyson was again recognized and he presented the paid note of $5,000.00, which represented all of the indebtedness against the parsonage, made a short, but effective appreciation talk thanking the people of the church for the splendid giving of sufficient money to take care of the note. Mr. Tyson then called Miss Loll Miller and Mr. Joe Bob Tokell who set fire to the note and mortgage. As the flames died away the congregation sang, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The choir sang "See Ye the Lord," by Roberts, before Dr. Williams spoke.

Effort Was Made To Land Tyler - Temple Game for Corsicana

Temple and Tyler high school football teams will play their quarter-final game Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Fort Worth.

This information was secured by Corsicana school and Chamber of Commerce executives shortly before 11 o'clock Monday morning from the two rival schools.

Corsicana had offered the facilities of Tiger Field, free of charge, to the contending clubs Saturday and renewed negotiations again Monday morning when it seemed the authorities of the two schools were deadlocked.

Superintendent W. H. Norwood, Coach John A. Pierce, R. W. Knight, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and other leaders attempted to land this attractive game here.

November Report Of Employment Service

If the November report of the local office of the Texas State Employment Service is indicative of general business conditions, the outlook for Christmas trade is good, due to the fact that the employment service found 119 jobs for people in Corsicana during the past month, Sam G. Wynn, local manager, said Saturday.

Representatives of the service made 124 visits to employers in Corsicana, seeking openings for workers. The co-operation that local firms have shown in using the service by phoning in orders for workers and by sending qualified applicants to the employment office for registration, is appreciated, Wynn said.

Claims for unemployment insurance have filed 174 initial claims and 956 continuing claims for benefits within the 30-day period and jobs for these claimants are being sought by the employment service.

LOCAL POSTOFFICE OFFICIALS ARE ANTICIPATING BIG CHRISTMAS ASK CO-OPERATION BY EARLY MAILING

By JAMES WILLIAMSON
Daily Sun Staff.
The sunbaked winter for Christmas is the postman.

Watch his actions closely enough and you will have a calendar knowledge of the proximity of the holiday season. When Uncle Sam's Merry men begin to look like they have just had a premonition of approaching disaster, you can be certain that Yuletide is coming round the corner. When Mrs. Postman hears that family sound that goes something like this: "Honey, I won't be home for supper, working late at the office," Christmas is bounding down the home stretch and it is really time to start shopping.

Like good housekeepers, postmen won't wait until company arrives to start baking the Christmas turkey. They begin preparations early and by the time lines start forming in front of the post office windows everything is working smoothly and efficiently.

Additional Force.
In Corsicana the force of post-office workers that will help out during the rush has been in training for several weeks. A. Allison, postmaster, reports that an additional force of 12 men have been employed to aid in the handling of the deluge of Christmas mail. These recruits, that will supplement the regular force, are going through a period of training that will have them working like veterans.

Postmasters could make one wish with the assurance that it would come true they would say "please let the public do its Christmas mailing early." But postmasters cannot make wishes come true and people prefer to stand in line between December 20 and 24 so ten thousand postmasters have to grit their teeth and think how nice it would be if their and Mrs. Everyday American would start coming in around the first of December and gradually work up to the 24th.

Aside from the last-minute mailers, postmen are faced with the problem of wrapped packages, or specifically, improperly wrapped packages. Postmen agree that it is really remarkable the trusting faith the population has in the loving and gentle care they expect postal officials to give their carefully wrapped parcels. In the rush that comes from millions of packages passing through the mailing lanes in a limited time, a certain amount of ungentle handling is required.

All possible care is exercised, but—So take heed and do not wrap that package that goes to Aunt Elmira's family in the once-around-and-twist-or-two manner that big sister wraps Junior's school lunch. It may not get to the depot in one piece and certainly won't make the two hundred mile trip to Pecos Hollow.

Special Instructions.
Then there is the matter of insurance. Insurance just won't take on a carelessly wrapped package. The postmaster general has issued special instructions for various types of mail. Fragile and breakable goods should be wrapped with special care with a good protective armor of corrugated cardboard. Perishables should be sent by special delivery. Best advice in package wrapping, postmen say, is the use of ordinary common sense and a self-pur question, "Will it get there in one piece?" A practical, though not recommended method is to wrap the package with care, then around twice, sit on it once, and then unwrap. If the contents have remained whole, the package may be wrapped in the original manner. If, during the tossing and turning, the package has dire results, you may start your Christmas shopping all over again.

Between now and Christmas Day business in Uncle Sam's post-office will go on as usual. Disappointing news for drunkards, the holiday mail will reach its destination in time for a place on a tree or in the nation's hosiery. In the meantime, if by chance you have done your Christmas shopping early, fire, flood and famine, the holiday mail will reach its destination in time for a place on a tree or in the nation's hosiery. In the meantime, if by chance you have done your Christmas shopping early, fire, flood and famine, the holiday mail will reach its destination in time for a place on a tree or in the nation's hosiery.

Yes, just wait until next year.

ALL-STAR COMBINATION HAS SPEED, BRAINS AND AMPLE WEIGHT

By PAUL MOORE
Sun Sports Editor

Speed, weight and brilliance dominates the 1938 all-district 11-A selections as selected after witnessing all clubs in action at least one time during the campaign. The selections are made principally on the play against Corsicana Tigers, although the reports of scouts, players and others were considered in some instances.

The all-star club was headed by four from Corsicana, two line men and two backs. Temple placed two, Waco three, Hillsboro one, and Waxahachie one each. Cleburne and Bryan played perhaps their poorest games of the season against Corsicana. Bryan was crippled during much of the campaign and late in the year played only one football game. Several candidates who are star performers.

The all-star eleven will average 170 pounds per man, including a couple of lightweight, Nutt, end, and Spencer, fullback.

Ends Aggressive.
Skelton, Temple, 165, and Johnny Nutt, Corsicana, 150, combines aggressiveness, sterling defense, sure tackling, and pass receiving. Skelton was the outstanding end of the year. Alford of Waco was a speedster, Ellington of Corsicana was smart and consistent. Windham at Cleburne was fine. Skelton, 185, and Nutt, 185, and Monroe, 180, at the tackle posts. Monroe is listed at 190 pounds and looks every pound of it. These are a pair of big, fast and bruising linemen, capable of handling any situation that might arise, and plenty tough. Alford of Corsicana was only a little behind those selected as was York of Waco and Hedrick of Bryan. Johnston of Corsicana deserves mention.

Bruising Guards.
Tom Paschal, Corsicana, 182, and West, Waco, 176, are the type of guards to delight any coach. Both are big tough and break through the threat of lines to spill the backfield formations as well as being able to stop any running plays directed toward them. Gatewood, 180, gets the call at center, although he is given comparison from across the field. Gatewood is a tall ball player and is great on intercepting passes over the line. He is a great pivot man, so is Mercer. Feltz of Corsicana, a youngster, playing his first year in high school this fall, was a vastly improved performer at the close of the season, and played great games against Temple and Cleburne. If he continues in 1939 where he is, he will make a serious bid for all-district.

Sensational Backs.
Meal ticket Pickett, 165, of Temple, is the outstanding signal caller in the district. In addition to his ability to direct a club, he is also some shakes as a ball-lugger and he can pass and punt. He was the most valuable man to the Wildcats and without Pickett the Wildcats are just another ball club.

Wallace. Spencer, 140-pound broken-field artist, runner and driving force, gets the left half-back post. Any time he gets the ball, it is a touchdown. Spencer, with a club like the one selected here, would be a standout. He can pass and can kick if necessary. On defense we would place him in the safety position to return punts. At right half, we nominate Turner of Waxahachie. He is about 160 pounds in weight, was one of the best passers we saw in the district. He can punt and can run with the ball. Donnie Kerens, 180, fullback of Corsicana, is placed in the backfield. He is a demon in backing up the line, can plunge the ball over and is a vicious tackler. Neal of Waco, a good punter, and is good punter. He can also pass when necessary. Templeton, quarterback and passer of Hillsboro, deserves mention and was an outstanding back. So was Nelson, Johnson and Farnell of Bryan, Carille of Temple; McCollum and Steadman of Cleburne and Bonner of Waco. A better club might be selected from the remaining players in the district, but we do not think so.

ANNOUNCE THEME SOCIAL WELFARE MEET CORSICANA

The everyday circumstances in Central Texas communities that constitute social problems for that area will be the theme of a two-day meeting of citizens and social workers at Corsicana, December 9 and 10, Campbell Loughmiller, chairman of the regional unit of Texas Conference of Social Welfare, announced today. County Judges and Commissioners, presidents and the luncheon clubs, county and home demonstration agents, rural and home management supervisors of the Farm Security Administration, and other public spirited citizens from the following counties have been invited:

Grayson, Fannin, Lamar, Collin, Hunt, Delta, Hopkins, Rockwall, Rains, Dallas, Kaufman, Van Zandt, Henderson, Navarro, Anderson, Freestone, Limestone, Leon, Houston, Robertson, Madison and Brazos.

Emphasis of the discussion will be on the problems of medical service, Loughmiller said. First aid treatment for minor injuries to individuals, hospitalization for emergencies of a major character and for mothers, organized preventive measures such as a phoid clinics for the general public, an admirable plan to help guarantee the physical capacity of the average citizen to earn a living will be talked over, he added.

Construction In Corsicana Shows Continued Growth

Although only one permit was issued from the office of the engineer during the past week, the total for construction in Corsicana for the calendar year reached well over the $200,000 mark, setting a record for the past eight years, and neared the annual average for the period of 1928-1937.

The permit was issued to W. L. Kirk for a new frame residence at 1813 Sycamore in the amount of $3,200 and brought the total for the calendar year to $205,168. Thus the 1938 totals hit the highest mark since 1930, and also approached the average for the ten year period of $208,000.

It is estimated that more residential construction has been completed during the past year than in any similar period since 1928-29, and the totals will compare favorably. Totals for the calendar year do not represent more than about fifty per cent of the actual construction done in the city and its immediate environs according to experienced observers who point out that the past year has seen extensive developments on lots just outside the city limits. Neither do the permits include any of the numerous improvements made at the State Home or the new $40,000 fair plant, and many other structures erected within a short distance of the city limits on which the materials and labor were all supplied from Corsicana.

Moscow's Strange Twin Sisters Are Dead Pneumonia

MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—(P)—Irina and Galina, Moscow's strange twin sisters died today. The baby girls had two heads, two pairs of legs and two back bones but only one body from the chest down. They were one year and 22 days old. From the time they were six weeks old, they had been in the All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine, objects of scientific research and wide public interest in the Soviet Union. They died of pneumonia—Irina 30 minutes after Galina.

HAS BABY A NASTY COLD?

Relieve the Misery As Most Mothers Do
Rub baby's back, chest, and throat with Vicks VapoRub and tuck him deep into bed. What a comfort to know that VapoRub does work right away to relieve the misery of his cold without "dosing"—without risk of stomach upset. And what a comfort to know that long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub will be working—two ways at once—direct through the skin like a poultice, and direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. You'll find that often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

How to Improve Your Personality
By VERONICA DENGEL

ADD GLAMOR TO YOUR HAIR

Recently I have discussed with you how to wash, brush, exercise and feed your hair. Now let us see what we can do about glamorizing that top-knot of yours. This is so definitely a feminine year, why not be just a bit frivolous? Indulge yourself a little. Change your make-up, and your hair-do; try some of the crazier hats—maybe you can wear them surprisingly well. Drop a few subtle hints to the family about the new frumpies in gloves, undies, lounging clothes—and don't forget to mention to your best beau the "perfectly de-vine" new perfume you just sniffed at the cosmetic counter while shopping today.

Have you ever thought of perfuming your hair? Not just using a perfumed soap, but putting on some of your most prized odor. This is an especially good plan before a dance—your partner will be completely captivated by your charm. But since the fragrance of perfume is increased when you move, the head is a very logical place to use it.

Perhaps the best way to perfume the hair is to use the odor when the hair is not quite dry after your shampoo. Part it in several places and apply the perfume directly to the scalp with the glass applicator. Or if your bottle is equipped with an atomizer, hold the nozzle close to the scalp as you spray it. If you have oily hair, instead of using water for a quick setting of your curls or wave, try eau de cologne or toilet water. The curls can be combed out more quickly; I would not suggest this for dry hair, though, because the alcohol would tend to dry out the natural oil.

But there is no reason why you should have dry hair. Do something about it! Give yourself a few good oil shampoos; brush the hair regularly to activate and evenly distribute the natural oil secretions; and air and sun bathe your hair whenever possible. You will get considerably more benefit from an oil treatment taken at home than by going to the average beauty salon. Naturally, you cannot stay there for the length of time you could devote at home to the soaking treatment. While the oil is on the hair you can be doing many odd tasks around the house, and the oil can go to your beauty operator for a thorough shampoo, or do it at home. (But if you go out, remember to wear an old hat so as not to soil your nice new one.)

For your oil application, use a good grade of olive oil, which should be warmed in a saucer placed over boiling water. Using a small square of cotton dipped into the hot oil, rub carefully and thoroughly into the part. Part the hair again about one inch away, and again apply the oil. Continue this procedure until the entire head has been well saturated. Now, with the cushions of the fingers, massage the scalp in a rotary motion for a few minutes. Move the scalp under the fingers, don't rub across. Then lie up the head in a towel which has been thoroughly warmed. Change the towel, and use another warmed one after a few minutes and allow to remain overnight or at least for three hours, before shampooing. Do this once a week for several weeks, and your new permanent will be grand.

ROOSEVELT

"What I would emphasize is the maintenance of successful democracy at home. Necessarily democratic methods within a nation's life entail change—the kind of change that is directed by the kind of change to meet new social and economic needs through recognized processes of government.

"Because we live in an era of acceleration, we can no longer trust to the evolution of future decades to meet these new problems. They raise before us today and they must be met today."

Contrasting the American form of government with dictatorships—without mentioning minority persecutions abroad—he asserted: "No Regimented People."

"There may be those in the world who believe that a regimented people, whose every thought is directed by one man, may give some people a type of security which is pleasing to them."

"But whatever convictions I have none stronger than my abiding belief that the security and well-being of the American people can best be served by the democratic processes which have made this country strong and great."

He added, however, that their futures rested "not on chance alone, not on mere conservatism, but on the affirmative action which we take in America."

Placing his hope in the younger generation and a national point of view as against sectionalism, Mr. Roosevelt told the students he was still a believer in capitalism despite what they heard in the "newspapers and heard on the air."

The President said the students had heard for six years that "I was about to plunge the nation into a war of the economic royalist," and as breakfasting every morning on "grilled millionaire," actually, he said, he was an "exceedingly peace-loving domestic and foreign, a believer in the capitalistic system, and for my breakfast a devotee of scrambled eggs."

He said other men in public life had protested against certain forms of economic control and epithets far stronger than he had ever used had been employed by other presidents.

"Those of us who knew Woodrow Wilson and Theodore Roosevelt and Grover Cleveland," he said, "all called them 'mollycoddlers.'"

"It is only the unthinking liberals in this world who are slowing up or temporary stopping of liberal progress."

"It is the unthinking conservatives who rejoice when a social evil is being corrected and who fail to be 100 per cent successful."

"It is only the 'headline' mentality that exaggerates or distorts the true objectives of those in the front line of the struggle."

"Do not get disheartened; and keep up the fight," the former president wrote.

What "T. R." had said in effect, said the President, was that the American people must have definite objectives for improvement of government and social and economic conditions; second, these must be carried out by "definite" action; and third, the government and the people must have two essential qualities—first a sense of proportion and perspective and, second, good will and a sense of humor.

"Almost every crisis of our history since 1789," he said, "has become a crisis because of a lack on the part of leaders or on the part of the people themselves, or both, of some of these essentials."

In accepting an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from the University the President paid tribute to the school for its "liberal teaching."

Twenty-two persons were injured in Philadelphia when a New York to-Miami bus skidded from a fog-blurred highway and overturned. Several motorists, taking the injured to hospitals, were lost for awhile in the fog.
